

REGULATION D CHART

Limitations on Withdrawals and Transfers from Savings Deposits

The Federal Reserve Bank has determined that an account with activity exceeding six transfers or withdrawals of a certain type per month constitutes a transactional account; i.e. share draft (checking) account. Therefore, in order to stay in compliance with the regulation, the number of Regulation D type transactions on our non-transaction accounts; i.e. share savings, clubs/special and money market accounts is limited to six per month.

The chart below illustrates the types of transfer that will and will not trigger a Regulation D occurrence.

What happens to my account if I continually exceed the transaction limitations?

Regulation D requires that CFCU take steps to prevent excessive transactions in non-transactional accounts; excessive transactions are transfers or withdrawals in excess of the six transfer and withdrawal limitation. For members who continue to violate those limits after they have been contacted by the CFCU, the Regulation requires that either the transaction be rejected and subject to a fee; the account be closed if the transaction threshold is repeatedly surpassed and/or the credit union will transfer ALL the funds in the shares (savings) to the checking to avoid further transfers that violate Regulation D.
